

PREVIEW

from Journal of the First Voyage to America

Summary Columbus writes in his journal about his exploration of a beautiful island. He describes spectacular trees, flowers, and birds. He also tells how the native people respond to him and his crew. Columbus wants to impress the people who are paying for his trip, so he describes the exotic objects he is bringing home.

Note-taking Guide

Use this diagram to record the events in the order in which they happen in this journal.

